

Dear Meeting Planner or Event Organizer,

Be prepared...Need a Contingency Keynote Speaker?

I can imagine that as a meeting planner, one of your challenges or fears when booking speakers for events and meetings must be to have them cancel on you at the last minute or even worse “no show”.

Should you ever be faced with having to find a suitable replacement speaker on short notice, I would be glad to fill in as contingency speaker or if unavailable, help connect you with another excellent speaker.

I have provided a one-page summary of my skills and speech topics for your consideration. I am confident that your audience and business associates will find my performances exciting, motivating and engaging. You can view my profile, a short video clip, and testimonials on my website at: www.ThomaFulmer.com .

Should you require further information or referrals on my experience, please ask. I would also welcome the opportunity to speak with you in advance so that if the need does arrive, you will know with which events I can be most helpful. Thanks for your consideration and I look forward to working with you.

Together we accomplish more,
